

When a leadership role posts internally, the decision is usually already made.

The people who get tapped are not in the interview room. They are already known.

#leadership #careergrowth